the postal services. The operation of private couriers is the result of a new demand for express mail service from the business and industrial sections. The traditional mail services were not fully equippd to meet the new demand of the market segment, but is now equipping itself for it.

There are instances of failure to deliver mail in time. But they are not so widespread as to give any ground for generalisation Most of the Dak is delivered in time. No instances of destruction of mails have come to notice.

(b) The Post's reply to the competition from the couriers is the new service called 'Speed Post' which is bcoming more and more popular as reflected in the increase in its annual turnover from Rs. 2.7 crores in 1987 to Rs. 8.4 crores in 1989.

The arrangement for mail transmission and distribution are constantly reviewed and revised whenever necessary. Besides this, the Department of Posts is making use of technology in selected areas to improve efficiency and productivity.
